PCI VALIDATION

ABSTRACT

A method and system for validating host bus adapters uses two processing passes. In the first pass, a snapshot of all configuration values of selected peripheral devices is taken. Then, the host bus adapter is powered down for a predefined period of time and powered up again. In the second pass, all the configuration values of the selected peripheral devices are reinitialized in a recursive manner.